Devil Sunday Sessions

2:00 pm – 5:00 pm

Join us for a free program of short talks with live music in TMAG's historic Watergate Courtyard!

To celebrate our current exhibition The Remarkable Tasmanian Devil, we'll be running this special event across three Sunday afternoons this February.

Grab a beer and a bite to eat and hear leading experts discuss devil conservation and the most recent research into the survival of this remarkable and iconic Tasmanian animal.

Emceed by popular science communicator Mark Horstman, the Devil Sunday Sessions will also feature live music by Tasmanian musicians.

The Remarkable Tasmanian Devil exhibition will be open until 5:00 pm on these three Sundays.

Please note this is an outdoor event so please remember to bring hats and sunglasses. TMAG will close one hour later at 5:00 pm on these three Sundays.

Session #1

Sunday 4 February 2018

Speakers: The Menzies Institute's Andy Flies, a leading researcher into Devil Facial Tumour Disease; Kathryn Medlock, TMAG's Senior Curator of Vertebrate Zoology and curator of The Remarkable Tasmanian Devil; and Julien Von Bibra, farmer and committed devil conservationist.

Music by Jed Appleton and Friends

Session #2

Sunday 11 February 2018

Speakers: MC Mark Horstman in conversation with Dr David Pemberton, Manager of the Save the Tasmanian Devil Program and a leading figure in the international effort to secure the Tasmanian devil's future.

Music by Kat Edwards and Smoke and Mirrors

Session #3

Sunday 18 February 2018

Speakers: The University of Tasmania's Menna Jones, one of the world's leading experts on devil ecology; veteran biologist and conservationist Nick Mooney; and Greg Irons, Director of Bonorong Wildlife Sanctuary.

Music by Mangus, Billy Whitton and Jamie Taylor
